The body of a woman fully clothed was found floating in the Thames river at New London Sunday. There were no marks on the clothing that would lead to identification and no marks on the hody that would lead to identification and no marks on the body that indicated violence. The body was discovered about eight o'clock Sunday morning by a Polander near the foot of John street, the sun skining on the jewelry on her hands attracting attention. She was unknown and about 35 years of age, five feet four inches tall and weighing about 130 pounds. It is thought she was lost off a coal barge and that the budy had been in the water ten to fourteen days. No foul play is suspected by the medical examiner. She wore a blue coat, skirt and hat, with white shirtwaist white shirtwaist.

After an illness of seven weeks, Deacon William Robinson of Franklin passed away at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon in his 76th year. His death will be deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends in Franklin and vicinity. Death resulted from heart trouble. Mr. Robinson was born Dec. 18, 1835, the son of William and Jemima Hazard Robinson, and the greater part of his life was spent in this section. For a long time he resided in Salem, from which town he enlisted in the Vivil war as a member of Company A, 26th war as a member of Company A, 26th regiment. He was wounded in service and suffered from it nearly all his life, being unable to do much heavy work. He was for years an overseer in the Fitchville mill, but has lived a retired life for a number of years in Franklin, where he has made his home for about a half century.

He was deacen of the Fitchville Exptist church for many years and at the time of his death. He was a valued resident of the town and a man of excellent character.
